ALL THAT SPARKLES

FLORAL CROWNS

A SNEAKY KISS before your vows!

FESTIVALS

BREAKING RULES

CLEVER CRAFT

BOUDOIR Ok la la...

What's TRENDING

It's all about your people and the party! Festive details, colour, carnival lights, but most of all the atmosphere... these are the things moving and shaking 2018 weddings - YAY! So much fun!

Floral crowns are adventurous and so beautiful to photograph! Fancy a first view (a secret rendezvous before your ceremony)? This can be a fun addition to your day! And what about a cheeky collection of boudoir photographs, that might prove to be his favourite wedding gift from his new bride! Just to remind him that the romance will stay alive after the 'I dos'.

Finally, get creative with all the details! It's all about the rule breakers now... the wedding cakes doesn't have to have rum in it, centre pieces are no longer crystal, the bridesmaid can have more bling than the bride and a little tasteful DIY can make all the difference to your reception!

Simone:
Don't be afraid to get a little dirty! I had the best time rolling on the ground with my BFs.

Jodie: Make sure your ceremony is sheltered, we said 'I do' under the shade of an amazing tree. I did not want to be a big sweaty mess on my big day!

Shannon:
Don't feel that you have to conform ... break the rules and dare to be different!

REAL BRIDES

spill the beans on what not to do

Gbonney:
Don't spoil the surprise! We didn't give anything away in the lead up to our day ... our guests loved the reveal!

Natalie:
Get shots with the kiddies before they get too tired — too cute! lol!

FAQ

How many images do we get on USB?

Almost as many as we can shoot! It is NOT uncommon for our couples to get more than 800 images in a 6 hour wedding package. They are your memories — who are we to keep them from you?

All of our collections include your high resolution images to USB. All images are edited, not watermarked and can be used to print enlargements from.

Why are you so affordable?

We moved our business from a commercial premises to Romana's private residence! We save thousands every month and simply pass on the savings to you!
Gotta love that!

Do you charge extra for travel?

For the most part the answer is no to additional fees for travel... but we do love destination weddings - these may attract an additional fee.

Will you travel overseas or interstate?

We LOVE to travel to exciting new places! We simply ask that you cover our flights and accommodation costs in addition to your wedding collection. We often do weddings in Fiji, Thailand and New Zealand.
Did I mention that we can also speak Thai?

I really want candid photos...

Romana was trained as a photojournalist and photographic artist at the Queensland College of Art, Griffith University. So, natural and 'real' imagery is what she specialises in. Everyone talks about 'candid' photos, but it's more than likely that 'candid' moment happens with the carpark or with crowds of people in the background. So we do direct you a little, usually to control the backgrounds and light, and to ensure that you have plenty of variety in your imagery. Once we have you in an amazing setting, it's play time! That is when we love to just encourage playfulness, laughter and lots of kissing! After all, it is your wedding day and you want to enjoy it!

All in the details

All those small details that you carefully chose for your wedding day ... we want to capture it all. Place all your details in one spot in the room you are getting ready in so we know exactly what needs to be photographed and we don't have to ask you too many questions on the day. We will then take each item away, style them and photograph them, then put them back so you know where everything is.

HOT TIPS

HOW TO MAKE THE MOST OF YOUR PHOTOGRAPHY

Every bride we speak to wants that picture perfect 'magazine' wedding ... While these weddings don't happen by accident, you too can get the look – all it takes is a little preparation!

KEEP IT CANDID

During the wedding preparations we prefer to be the observers, the documenters. Once we arrive and have had all the introductions, we will step back and photograph candidly (well, with an occasional prompting and a little direction). Choosing a big room to get ready in helps with this process, especially if there are many people involved in the preparation, this will allow us to move around unobtrusively. All people involved should be made aware that we are photographing candidly and therefore do not need to look at the camera every time it is pointed their way nor do they have to freeze their movement for us to capture the moment. Always smile and laugh as it is a happy day ... and even if you are nervous, smiling and laughing can help ease the nerves.

Let there be light

We love using natural light as it is the most beautiful and flattering. Therefore some tips would be to choose rooms with a lot of windows / big windows to get ready in. Make sure you open up all the curtains. Also turn off any lights or bedside lamps as these artificial lights can cause colour casts and are unflattering.

Clear the room

Chaos tends to kick in when you start to get ready for your big day. But nobody wants to get ready in a mess. Ensure that your 'getting ready room' is clutter free. This makes a huge difference to your photographs. Ask your attendants to hide any clutter before the photographer arrives. Make sure the bed is made and the pillows are fluffed.

Portrait perfection

After you are dressed we usually like to take some photographs of the bride/groom by themselves. Unlike the photos we took while you were getting ready, we will help direct you with poses and where to photograph to get the most flattering images you can look back on. These are the moments of you dressed, looking your best on your special day before your partner sees you. Once we have captured photos of you on your own, we will then include your bridesmaids or groomsmen and some of your family members.

FAMILY AFFAIR

A little helping hand gets the family pics moving quicker (so that we can make the most of your bridal shots). We like to get a list from you two weeks before, that tells us which groupings to photograph. If you could also nominate someone to help us gather everyone on the day, even better! That way, our newlyweds can enjoy being kissed and congratulated while we congregate.

Breathe and smile

Your day goes by so quickly, the last thing you need to do is stress or worry. Enjoy your day, let it all unfold and develop around you. Take in as much as you can, love every moment and don't forget to breathe and smile.

The kiss

Being the pros that we are, we always know when the kiss is coming. We are positioned and ready in the wing waiting for THAT special moment! So, when you finally get to seal your vows with a kiss, a nice gentle tilt does perfectly (so that we can see both your gorgeous faces and not the back of a head). If the moment takes you, you can always take TWO! Your guests will love it as well!

We will be shooting them with the tickets from the day they met! Think about it, your fave image could come from something simple, like holding your first love letter, or a quiet moment on the picnic blanket you always use.

Bridal shots

We like to personalise these moments as much as possible. Do you have something special that we can incorporate into your photographs? For example, one of our couples met at Splendour in the Grass. We will be shooting them with the tickets from the day they met! Think about it, your fave image could come from something simple, like holding your first love letter, or a quiet moment on the picnic blanket you always use.

BEST MAN DUTY

Traditionally, the chief bridesmaid has more to do than the best man, so I like to even up the job. A hamper for photo time that includes some nibbles, water and the newlywed's fave drinks is a good idea. Photo time isn't much fun if you are hungry or thirsty and often it is very thirsty work.

Edited...

what does it all mean?

For us it's about quality control...

Sherry Saeheng
Digital artist

For some studios, editing is about the 'soft lens' effect ... the blurred edges and what we call '80's romance'. That kind of editing will never find it's way into our studio! For us it is about ensuring an amazing, vibrant image! Each and every image you receive is cleaned up, and this can mean a number of things. It means that we look at the levels, ensuring that we can see detail in our shadows and highlights and that all the mid-tones are correct. We sharpen if need be, we saturate for awesome colour. Without question your skin tone will be beautiful and the composition of your image artistically tasteful. We include all of these things in what we call a basic edit. We also offer what is known in the industry as a 'magazine' edit. This kind of editing includes things like, evening out and smoothing of skin tones, pinching of cheeks (that little rosey look), brightening of the eyes and tidying up of the hair. Removal of unwanted distracting items may also occur.

As photojournalists we capture real moments, emotions and people loving life ... as artists we get to make the image look so much prettier!

These things however, are aimed at enhancing the beauty of the image. The example on the left demonstrates how a basic edit and minimal 'touching up' can enhance an image. Our beautiful bride now has that glow she possessed on her day and by removing a few holes from the wall, the image is so much cleaner. Other further edits might include painting on a vignette (an effect to the outer edge of the image), creating an aged colour effect or even selective colour (see above). Need a blue sky or sunset? The possibilities are endless!

NEXT MOVE

What to do if you love what you see...

All major wedding investments should come with a contract or booking form

Let's catch up to chat all about your day, your plans and your vision.

A face-to-face meeting gives you the opportunity to ask as many questions as you like! Touch and feel our albums, see more photographs and get to know us!

It also allows us to get a really good idea of what you would like for your day. We can begin the planning process and design a photography plan that complements your overall vision of your wedding day.

lock it in baby

Once you have decided on a photography collection that satisfies your every whim, we lock in your date and your photographer/s with a booking contract. This contract outlines all of your package inclusions and protects your interests. There are a couple of payment options on your booking form.

Then the fun begins! We encourage you to send us your 'wedding photography' Pinterest board. We are not 'precious' about our style ... in fact, we embrace the concept of the 'client brief' and love new ideas to be thrown our way. After all, it is YOUR day!

Closer to the day, we meet again and discuss your day in detail ... lots of detail!

REAL WEDDING in paradise

Fitzroy

PARADISE

With sand between their toes, under an amazing Queensland sun, Carly and James shared precious promises...

Romana was so excited to hear that the gorgeous twin sister of one of her Brisbane bride's was getting married! Even more excited when she found out that she wanted her to shoot it and was going to fly her to Fitzroy to make it all happen!!!

Romana LOVES a beautiful destination wedding! Having already been to Thailand for another beach wedding earlier in the year, she was excited to share one much closer to home.

Carly and James said 'I do' on the beach, friends surrounded them shaded by the broad canopy of the Pandanus... oh so tropical!

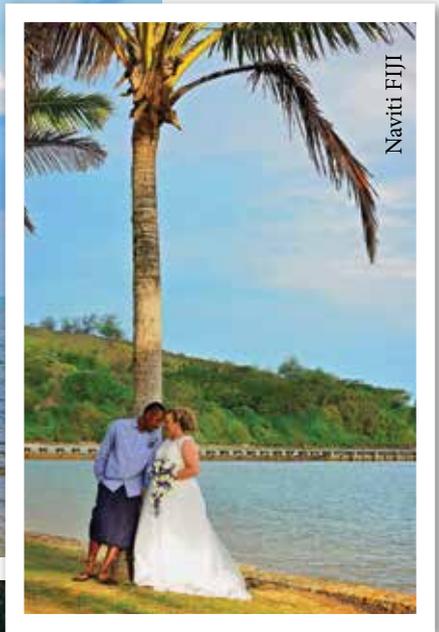

While friends and family sipped on resort cocktails, they enjoyed some 'photo time' with their nearest and dearest! This time, may or maynot included an 'oopsie' moment with our beautiful bride falling into the ocean after an attempt to paddle board in her dress (not our idea lol). Like the true free spirit she is - the cool dip just added to the fun of her day!

Romana, now that we have had time to sit down and go through all our photos, i just wanted to send you another thank you for doing such an amazing job of capturing our wedding! You were so fun to work with and we love our photos!! So thank you so so much! You are very talented :) See you at the next occasion :) James and Carly x

So you've found the perfect do for your 'I do'? It is the perfect look that you think will complement your overall vision for your day, it works with the dress and the theme of your wedding. But have you thought about how it will work with the elements? For instance, if your ceremony is on the beach, as painful as it is to say, a loose lock or waterfall wave (often referred to as a beach babe look) is not the ideal hairstyle, simply because of the windfactor and other elements. A textured boho styled updo with lots of product and pins is a much better option, particularly if you want your hair to stay looking amazing for your photography after the ceremony. The last thing you want is to look like you've just stepped off a speedboat.

Now that you have your dream hairstyle, how do you select the pro to pull it off? Obviously, you ask google! Put together a short list of pros and make sure that you check out their portfolio. Don't just rely on images from fashion shoots (these images are taken under very different conditions to a wedding). Make sure that they have a number of photographs of 'real' brides, not just their own shots (taken before they leave the bride), but from the pro-photographer as well. This will show

FLAWLESS FINISH WITH airbrush make-up

If you've never had your make-up applied professionally, you may not have heard of airbrush make-up. It sounds a little confronting ... the vision may be of your face being sprayed with a massive commercial paint gun!

Now remove that vision from your mind and replace the thought with one of being made up like the silver-screen sirens you admire.

Airbrush make-up feels amazing on your face, it feels light and leaves your skin looking perfectly even and unblemished. The camera will love your wedding day look and you will notice a big difference to your traditionally applied make-up. Plus, it will last all night long!

you how their hair looked hours after the ceremony.

What next? Lock in your fave for a trial, take images of your dream hair and if your stylist doesn't also do make-up, then go with your face on. However, in my experience, your day will run smoother if your chosen pro does both hair and make-up, so that's something to think about.

So your hair trial was beyond your expectations — YAY! Was it polished off with a little hair bling? Taking your dress with you to your trial can prove the smartest move if your stylist also has a collection of amazing hair pieces! Surprisingly, hair accessories are often overlooked and left to the last minute, so it is good to be able to try on different hair accessories or even veils at your trial to see what will complement your desired hairstyle and overall look.

Your options are limitless now ... from floral garlands, to simple beaded headbands, embellished hair combs and handmade vintage inspired lace accessories. What a way to complete your dream vision on your special day.

Suzie Rumler always suggests a make-up trial and recommends that you organise your trial to coincide with your engagement and/or boudoir shoot, or even your hen's party! This way you can really put your make-up to the test! See the results for yourself in picture perfect images (your awesome 'bride-to-be' glow will shine right through!)
